DDS Logistics announces the arrival of a Managing Director to support and speed up its growth

DDS Logistics, the digital transport solutions publisher, is pleased to announce the arrival of Paul Klebinder, its new Managing Director, to drive the company's growth and transformation.

Paul Klebinder becomes the Managing Director of DDS Logistics France with more than 20 years of experience, in order to speed up the growth of France's leading TMS publisher.

After graduating from Agro Toulouse and the Ecole Centrale de Paris, Klebinder spent 10 years developing services in the field of digital mapping, before founding and managing Galigeo in 2001, which specialized in geo-decision-support services.

In 2004, he joined Orange, where he was the SUEZ, then GDF SUEZ (ENGIE) Account Manager, and succeeded in promoting this account into the group's top three major accounts. In 10 years, he helped the operator become the top ICT supplier of this leading global energy utility, by supporting the rapid digital transformations of the future in energy and the environment through telecommunications services and the outsourcing of the information system managed by Orange.

In 2015, Klebinder took over the general management of Etrali France and Italy, a world-leading French fintech company in trading communications solutions, and became the Director for Europe and South America, when the company was taken over by its competitor, IPC. He was responsible for making the transition and speeding up the transformation of services on the European trading floors.

Klebinder's mission will consist of speeding up the development of DDS Logistics and helping its customers digitize their transport.

"I am delighted to welcome Paul to the DDS Logistics management team. His broad experience, interpersonal qualities and entrepreneurial spirit will be essential to the development of our fast-growing business," said Jérôme Bour, CEO of DDS Logistics.

"I am delighted to be joining the teams at DDS Logistics. My experience in international management will really help us speed up the growth of the French leader in TMS, and to consolidate our services for our customers the world over. The enthusiasm and the expertise of the people at DDS and the convictions and human values embodied by Jérôme Bour persuaded me to join the management team at DDS in order to support our customers and prospects in the digital transformation of their supply chain," concluded Klebinder.
